

Enable Macros in Microsoft Word

Removing Die Lines from USDigitalMedia Label Templates

By default Microsoft programs set their security level to high. You need to set it to medium for it to ask you about enabling macros when you open the document.

Do this:

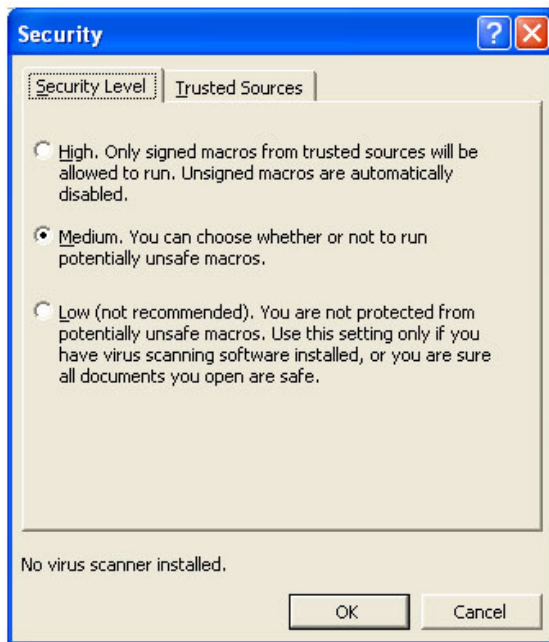

Open Word

In the menu bar click on Tools

Go down to Macros, then cascade over and click on Security

Choose Medium

Click OK

Then open your document that contains the macros, when asked, click on Enable Macros, and you will be good to go.

Now you should be able to CTRL+M to get the die lines removed.
